Marc grew up in Long Island, NY and started riding at the age of eight. Early in his riding career he showed Pony Hunters and later in the Equitation divisions. He was a member of Meadow Brook Hounds Pony Club and received his 'A' rating in 1986. After graduating from Emerson College with a degree in speech and communications, Marc continued Eventing throughout the east coast and Canada. In the 1990s, he rode his horse Middlemarch to the CCI level while bringing numerous young horses up through the levels. In the past several years Marc has designed Show Jumping courses for many competitions including the Southern Pines Horse Trials, the Fork 2006 and 2007 World Cup Qualifiers, the 2004 through 2006 and 2009 through 2011 American Eventing Championships, the Boston Fidelity Jumper Classic, and the Upperville Colt and Horse Show. He assisted Richard Jeffery at the 2011 National Horse Show and assisted Richard and Conrad Homfeld at the 2010 World Equestrian Games. Currently, Marc operates a training facility in Southern Pines, NC where he rides and trains horses for eventing and showing and teaches adults and Young Riders through the Intermediate level.
